Your financial aid award is based on your total Cost of Attendance (COA) which will vary depending on your housing selection: on-campus, off-campus, or commuter/remote learning. Each of these categories contributes to your total COA for the academic year. For example, the difference from “on-campus” to “off-campus” is $1690; this means you would receive $1690 less in aid if you decide to live off-campus. If your award letter listed a university grant, the grant would be reduced by $1690. If you switch from “on-campus” to “remote learning,” then your budget would be reduced by $9055; this change would be deducted via university grants and loans.

You can use our Net Price Calculator www.financialaid.ucla.edu/Parent/Net-Price-Calculator to estimate your eligibility for financial aid and to see how your eligibility for grant and non-grant assistance would change, if you change your housing status.

1. I am changing my housing selection from “on-campus” to “remote learning.” How will this affect my financial aid?
If you initially indicated you would be living on-campus and will now be remote learning, we will recalculate and reduce your university grant (if eligible) and/or loans by the difference in cost. See the housing budget above for the cost differences.

2. I plan to live on-campus, but the amount of housing has increased. How will my financial aid cover this cost?
We will offer more grants (if eligible) and loans to help you meet your increased cost of housing.

3. How can I accept my on-campus housing offer if I have not yet received my financial aid award letter for 2020-21?
We will award all students up to the cost of attendance with loans, and grant (if eligible) to meet the needs of your tuition/fees, housing, and other educational expenses.

4. Will my Pell Grant and Cal-Grant be affected if I change my housing status to “commuter/remote learning?”
No, your Pell Grant will not change. However, you must have a minimum need of $14,070 to maintain your Cal Grant eligibility.

5. My housing installment payment is due. Will this be automatically deducted from my financial aid award or do I need to pay out of my pocket?
Fall 2020 financial aid can only disburse the evening of September 18th, ten days before the start of fall quarter on September 28th. If you have concerns about making your initial housing installment payment, please contact the UCLA Housing Office at uchahousing@housing.ucla.edu.

6. Will I be able to change my Winter or Spring ’21 housing selection to “on-campus” if classes resume to in-person?
We are asking students to make housing decisions for the entire academic year. Students who received an on-campus housing offer may not defer their offer to winter quarter because capacity for this quarter is currently unknown due to evolving LA County health guidance. UCLA Housing will reach out to eligible students to reapply if there are changes that allow for new offers for winter quarter.

7. Can I make changes to my housing status at any time?
Yes, simply submit a Housing Adjustment form and provide the supporting documentation requested in the form.

8. What if my housing cost exceeds the amount that is stipulated in my academic year housing budget?
The standard rent component for 2020-21 on-campus housing is $1917, while off-campus is $1128. If you are paying over the standard cost of respective housing, we will meet your needs by increasing your loans to cover the difference. You will need to submit a Housing Adjustment form.

9. Will I still be eligible for UCLA’s housing next year?
Yes, UCLA Housing will be extending students’ guarantee, regardless of whether or not they lived on-campus during the 2020-21 academic year.

10. My financial aid award letter has me listed as “on-campus” or “remote learning”, but I will be living in an off-campus apartment, what should I do?
Submit a Housing Adjustment form along with documentation.
